EMULATES
SOLOMONJudge Robinson's Plan to Settle Custody of Child.

Judge Robinson yesterday effected a Solomon-like settlement of a dispute over the custody of a child, though he did not frighten anybody by calling for a sword to make a corporeal partition of the subject. Although there may come a hitch in the settlement, so far as its wisdom is concerned there seems no doubt. At all events, the contending parties were prompt in its acceptance.

It was in the habeas corpus case of Joe Enos against John Kaimi and Napoe, for the custody of a bright little boy named Leon Sterling. Enos is the adoptive father of the child. Kaimi, a venerable-looking native, was the husband of the child's mother, who before the child's birth, obtained a divorce from his wife. Napoe is a brother of Mrs. Enos, wife of petitioner.

Leon recently ran away from his adoptive parents and took refuge with Kaimi. According to the apswer of respondents and to evidence on their behalf given before Judge Robinson yesterday morning, the child's flight was due to gross ill-treatment in the home of Enos. There was testimony of cruel welts upon Leon's body from a heavy blacksnake whip, as punishment for failure to perform all of many hard tasks of work given to the child.

Leon's hands were covered with sores and Napoe swore that Mrs. Enos told him that the sores were due to an incurable disease. There was much evidence, however, to show that the nature and variety of the boy's tasks were quite accountable for the lesions upon the tender little hands. One of the things he had to do was to pound awa for the drinking of Enos and his guests. Napoe said he drank awa with Enos and saw the boy pounding the root in preparation of the beverage. It was then that he noticed the condition of Leon's hands.

Then there was evidence that the boy was poorly fed. For breakfast he usually had a cup of coffee and a few thin pieces of bread. Half a small bowl of poi would be his next meal. His dinner consisted mainly of four bits of tripe each about an inch square. When the hearing was resumed at 2 p. m. and Mrs. Napoe had been sworn, Judge Robinson interposed with his plan of settlement. He said that the relations between the contending parties were so strained that there was no likelihood that any order awarding the custody of the child either to Enos or to Kaimi would set the dispute finally at rest. In all probability there would be petitions in galore from the disappointed side, alleging all sorts of improper treatment of the child.

Under this condition of things, even without taking into account the evidence already heard, the court could not restore the boy to the custody of his adoptive father. There would always be trouble and the little fellow would have no chance to be brought up to American citizenship.

What the court proposed was that Leon should be placed in Kamehameha School for Boys, where he could be maintained from the proceeds of his interest in the Sterling estate until he reached his majority. The court understood on information that the fees for maintenance and tuition at St. Louis College, where the boy had been sent pending the habeas corpus proceedings, were too high to be met by his small patrimony.

C. F. Peterson, counsel for Enos, at once agreed to the court's proposal and on behalf of his client offered to guarantee the financial part of it.

C. H. Dickey, counsel for respondents, consulted with Kaimi in Hawaiian. The old man stuck a little over the question of the boy's custody in vacations, but Judge Robinson stipulated, on being told it was feasible, that the boy should have his home absolutely at the school. By nods and whispers Napoe urged Kaimi to accept the proposition. Kaimi did so.

As it was not certain, until the Kamehameha authorities were consulted, that the boy could secure admission to the school, Judge Robinson formally continued the hearing until Saturday morning. At that time, if there be anything to block the arrangement, the court will set a time for hearing the habeas corpus case to a finish. It can not be heard on Saturday because many other matters are set for that day. All like Judge Robinson, who desire to see a little human waif given a chance to grow up to respectability and usefulness, will hope that the case may never have to be further heard.

SECOND BIG SUIT FOR SAME CAUSE

Kahakuakoi Kealohapauole is suing Honolulu Rapid Transit & Land Co. for $10,150 damages, on account of injuries received while driving with her friend, Mrs. Wakeki Heleluhe, on January 25 last. A King street car struck and wrecked the buggy, as previously reported. Mrs. Heleluhe a few days ago brought a damage suit on her own behalf, claiming $10,000 and her doctor's bill additional, for the same occurrence. J. J. Dume and E. A. Douthitt are plaintiff's attorneys.

EIGHTEEN
MONTHSA Sentence for Assault
With a Deadly Weapon.

Shimatzu pleaded guilty yesterday morning, before Judge De Bolt, to indictment for assault and battery with a dangerous weapon. He was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment at hard labor. E. A. C. Long had been assigned by the court as Shimatzu's counsel. Deputy Attorney General Fleming prosecuted.

County Attorney Douthitt entered a nolle prosequi for Chung Ho, charged with the misdemeanor of assisting to maintain a lottery game.

There were no criminal cases ready for trial yesterday.

THE CARTER ESTATE.

In the matter of the estate of Margaret V. Carter, deceased, Edgar Henriquez, plaintiff, by his attorneys, Kinney, McManahan & Cooper and W. S. Edings, files a joinder in demurrer, also a motion for judgment against Jesse K. Kase, executrix, thus:

"And the said plaintiff says that the said plea of the said defendant is not sufficient in law to bar the said plaintiff from having and maintaining his action; wherefore, for want of a sufficient plea, he prays judgment with costs."

QUESTION IN HANDS OF JURY

After a trial lasting into the third day of the third week, including two or three days in getting a jury, the quieting title case of Alexander Young vs. F. W. Macfarlane and others went to the jury yesterday. While still deliberating, after an absence of two hours and a half, the jurors were sent out to dinner.

Messrs. Ballou and Lewis addressed the jury for defendants in the forenoon. Mr. Withington made the closing speech for the plaintiff after recess. The jury retired at 3:30 and came in half an hour later for certain specific instructions on the documents in the case.

NOAR MORTGAGE IS FORECLOSED

Ida E. Lamb, formerly of Honolulu, but at present residing in the City of New York, has brought a suit for foreclosure of mortgage against Julia Noar of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The claim is for a balance of principal and interest on a promissory note made by the late Isaac Noar for $7500, dated Honolulu, June 28, 1901, with interest at 8 per cent. per annum, and for insurance and taxes on the property mortgaged to secure the note, and for all the legal expenses including a solicitor's fee. The property in question is situated on the north side of Fort street at Kapahu, Honolulu, and contains an area of 3177 square feet. It contains the Star lodging house.

Interest payments were made up to the latter part of June, 1905, but only $500 was ever paid on account of principal. Taxes were allowed to become delinquent for the year 1905 to the amount of $53.60, and to protect her interests, the mortgagee was compelled to pay $180 for reinsurance on the buildings, each of these delinquencies being in breach of the covenants of the mortgage.

Isaac Noar conveyed the mortgaged premises to the respondent on September 15, 1903. He died on August 4, 1905. Complainant signs by her attorney in fact, J. M. Dowsett, and Holmes & Stanley are her counsel.

COURT NOTES.

Honolulu Plantation Co. by Smith & Lewis, its attorneys, has entered a demurrer to the complaint of Dr. McGrew claiming damages for the destruction of a wagon and mule team by being struck, at a public road crossing, by a locomotive of defendant. The ground of demurrer is "that said complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action."

K. B. Porter by his attorneys, Thompson & Clemons, makes a separate answer of general denial to the complaint of City Mill Company, Ltd., vs. J. R. Shaw, Edward Wagner and K. B. Porter, partners in the Wagner Stock Yards Co.

Esther Cummings Lucas by her attorney, A. G. M. Robertson, has filed a motion in the partition suit of Lyle A. Dickey vs. William C. Cummings et al., for the court to direct Chris. J. Willis, commissioner, to make his report forthwith.

Holmes & Stanley, attorneys for Lee Chun and Tam Young in the suit of W. Austin Whiting vs. Lee Tat San and others, have filed a motion to set a day for trial.

In the case of Elizabeth K. Meyer vs. Jesse P. Makainai the plaintiff, by her attorneys, Andrade and Robertson, has moved to dismiss the defendant's appeal on the grounds of failure both to perfect and to prosecute the appeal.

SPORTS
THE EARTHQUAKE AND PUGILISM

There is considerable discussion going on at present among ringside habitués as to the effect the catastrophe at the Coast is likely to have on the game here. Joe Cohen was to have brought a fighter down from San Francisco to match Dick Sullivan and it was known that he was also looking out for a likely boy to put up against the ever victorious McFadden. Cohen will be here on the Alameda and there is great interest in finding out whether he is to be accompanied or not.

San Francisco will be no place for the pugs for some time to come and it is just possible that a number of them may think that Honolulu will be a good place to put the time in at until things settle again at the Coast. Unless they do there will be nothing doing locally in the squared circle.

McFadden will not accept the challenge issued a short time ago by Young Nelson. In the first place he has not seen the money which was supposed to have been talking while he was visiting the other islands, and then again he feels that the conditions attached to the challenge were framed with the idea of preventing him from accepting. A ringside weight of 123 pounds is finer than he cares to train and he thinks that Nelson's backers knew his when they talked of another match.

There is no one in sight to make a match for Sullivan, and until he and McFadden are put out there is no use anyone else trying to draw a house.

LANDSMEN WIN
FROM SAILORS

The Diamond Head racing team ran away from the Manning boys in the mile Invitation Race last night at the rink. There were five starters, Sumner, Rice and Bolster, of the Diamond Heads, and Heegel and Acklein, representing the Navy. From the scratch Sumner led, Heegel taking the second place for the first turn, when Bolster replaced him. After five times around all the Diamond Heads were leading and in lap 11 Sumner had lapped the trailer. The finish was: Sumner, first; Bolster, second, and Rice, third. The race was run in fairly good time.

In the Novice Race there was plenty of fun for everybody, especially the spectators. Jones, Robertson, Joseph, Desha and Cummings toed the chalk mark, the two latter being handicapped two laps in the half mile. The race was a series of ups and downs, every skater proving his novitiate title at frequent intervals. Despite his handicap, Desha finished ahead, making a close run with Jones.

Next Wednesday night there will be more racing, the second heat in the relay race contest being scheduled. As the local skaters are acquiring skill and speed with practise these racing contests are exciting considerable interest, shown by the large attendance at the rink at these regular Wednesday night events.

A REMEDY THAT IS TRULY MAGICAL IN ITS POWER TO RELIEVE PAIN.

Mr. Lewis Rozario, Manager of Madras Co-op. Stores, of Madras, India, says: "I certainly think Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is one of the best medicines made. I had been suffering from an attack of colic and after trying a couple of prescriptions without relief, a friend suggested that I take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I did so and the result was truly magical for it gave me immediate relief. About that time several of my staff were attacked in a like manner and out of this same bottle I cured them all."
